Art Unit: 1743

1. The listing of references in the specification is not a proper information disclosure statement. 37 CFR 1.98(b) requires a list of all patents, publications, or other information submitted for consideration by the Office, and MPEP § 609 A(1) states, "the list may not be incorporated into the specification but must be submitted in a separate paper." Therefore, unless the references have been cited by the examiner on form PTO-892, they have not been considered. Further, 37 CFR 1.98(a)(2) requires a legible copy of each U.S. and foreign patent; each publication or that portion which caused it to be listed; and all other information or that portion which caused it to be listed.

2. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

3. The factual inquiries set forth in Graham v. John Deere Co., 383 U.S. 1, 148 USPQ 459 (1966), that are applied for establishing a background for determining obviousness under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) are summarized as follows:

1. Determining the scope and contents of the prior art.
2. Ascertaining the differences between the prior art and the claims at issue.
3. Resolving the level of ordinary skill in the pertinent art.
4. Considering objective evidence present in the application indicating obviousness or nonobviousness.

4. This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35 U.S.C. 103(c) and potential 35 U.S.C. 102(e), (f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. 103(a).

5. Claims 1, 3, 5-6 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Minick et al.

Minick teaches determining log P using a C18 and the claimed buffer conditions (see experiment 3 of Table II on page 1927). Minick fails to teach that log D is determined in accordance with the instant equation (see, e.g., Table II, experiment 3) or that the C18 column has "low silanol activity."

It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to adjust the result-effective variables, such as column size, solvent composition and flow rate, in order to provide desired separation results as was known in the art, and to adjust the linear correlation between log P and log k' according to the new results. To the extent that "low silanol activity" has been defined, it is the examiner's position that the C18 column of experiment 3 has "low" activity in that it is used to determine log P using the claimed solvent system. With respect to claims 5-6, it would have been obvious to use conventional laboratory equipment, such as robotics, to perform the experiments in order to achieve the known advantages of speed and reliability. In that log P is the same as log D at pH values where the compounds are neutral, log P represents log D for neutral compounds at the running pH. Note that the instant claims do not preclude the amino modifier taught at p. 1932, column 2, paragraph 3 of Minick.

6. The nonstatutory double patenting rejection is based on a judicially created doctrine grounded in public policy (a policy reflected in the statute) so as to prevent the unjustified or improper timewise extension of the "right to exclude" granted by a patent and to prevent possible harassment by multiple assignees. See In re Goodman, 11 F.3d 1046, 29 USPQ2d 2010 (Fed. Cir. 1993); In re Longi, 759 F.2d 887, 225 USPQ 645 (Fed. Cir. 1985); In re Van Ornum, 686 F.2d 937, 214 USPQ 761 (CCPA 1982); In re Vogel, 422 F.2d 438, 164 USPQ 619 (CCPA 1970); and, In re Thorington, 418 F.2d 528, 163 USPQ 644 (CCPA 1969).

A timely filed terminal disclaimer in compliance with 37 CFR 1.321(c) may be used to overcome an actual or provisional rejection based on a nonstatutory double patenting ground provided the conflicting application or patent is shown to be commonly owned with this application. See 37 CFR 1.130(b).

Effective January 1, 1994, a registered attorney or agent of record may sign a terminal disclaimer. A terminal disclaimer signed by the assignee must fully comply with 37 CFR 3.73(b).

7. Claims 1-6 are rejected under the judicially created doctrine of obviousness-type double patenting as being unpatentable over claims 1-8 of U.S. Patent No. 6,548,307.

Although the conflicting claims are not identical, they are not patentably distinct from each other because the instant claims are encompassed by the teachings of the patented claims for pH values where the compounds are neutral and therefore $\log P = \log D$. Note that within the margins of error, the equations overlap in values. Note that while the instant and patented claims do not require neutral compounds, neither do they require acidic or basic compounds.

8. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.

9. Kakeya teaches that the log P value is determined for neutral compounds (col. 2, line 14).

Art Unit: 1743

10. Russell teaches the pH dependence of log D (paragraphs 0059 and 0061).
